Double Helix Water Has the 200-year-old mystery of homeopathy been solved? By David L. Gann, Shui-yin Lo PhD

The leading cause of personal bankruptcy in America is hospitalization yet despite the high cost of healthcare, the US is ranked 37th worldwide by the World Health Organization in providing safe and effective treatment. Gann and his particle physicist research partner Lo, have presented their groundbreaking research into an undiscovered molecular phase of water in an easy to read summary. With their Genesis Phase of water, they claim they have uncovered the underlying mechanism of how water forms a solid particle at room temperature and thereby explain many of the mysteries of alternative health practices. Research into the atomic level of the water molecule complete with photos is presented in a simplified and understandable manner leading, the reader through miles of physical and chemical jungles effortlessly. Tackling head-on the raging battle between Allopathic and Homeopathic Medicine, Gann and Lo's research sheds light on both sides of this 50 year conflict. Laboratory experiments are explained in layman's terms thereby allowing a person with no physics background to understand the mechanism underlying Homeopathy. Their research into the water molecule is a fascinating read explaining the mysteries of Homeopathy but even more may be the needed paradigm shift ushering in a new age of an inexpensive, safe and truly workable healthcare system. Introduction by Dr. Norman Shealy founder of the American Holistic Medical Association and one of the world's leading research pioneers in developing safe and effective non-pharmaceutical health treatments, with 50 years of experience as an accomplished neurosurgeon and research physician. Shealy, has been a medical consultant to leaders in every specialty including the personal physicians of Presidents Kennedy and Eisenhower, as well as one of the country's principal research authorities in alternative medicine. His published works total over 275 including 22 books. His seminars and workshops are given worldwide and are attended by physicians and lay persons alike.

Editorial Review

Review

The Secret of Life has been the foundation of philosophy and medicine throughout history. The Chinese called it chi; the Japanese, qi; the Indians, prana; and Wilhelm Reich, orgone. Much of medicine before 1940 was rather pragmatic empirical practice with many errors. Since 1940 the bulk of modern medicine has been a takeover by the PharmacоМafia my title for the pharmaceutical industry. Today Modern Medicine is at least the third leading cause of death in the United States (JAMA, July 2000). Drugs that have little justification and serious risks, called side effects, are added almost daily to the stream of offerings. Numerous brave souls question the current system, and yet it is THE SYSTEM rejecting and attacking viciously virtually every alternative. Homeopathy was introduced by Hahnemann when the mainstay of the medical profession was bloodletting, purging and leeches. Even then homeopathy was rejected by those who snobbishly considered themselves intellectually superior. Despite this rejection, homeopathy remains a major force in Europe and England. In the United States, early in the twentieth century, the American Medical Association, in collaboration with the Rockefeller Foundation, conspired to have Abraham Flexner produce his Report attacking everything except allopathic medicine, with its drugs and surgery. Half of all medical schools and hospitals were closed. Acupuncture, used in the U.S. since at least the 1850s, was abandoned. Homeopathy was excommunicated. Osteopathy was vigorously attacked, and chiropractic was even more viciously attacked until the AMA was finally defeated by the chiropractors in 1966. The remarkable pleomorphism theories and practices of Royal Rife were destroyed by the Czar of the AMA, Morris Fishbein, setting back for over sixty years the potential cure of cancer. The work of Georges Lakhovsky, George Crile and Harold Saxton Burr on the electrical foundation of life remains ignored. These three proved beyond any reasonable scientific doubt that the essence of life is indeed electrical. The chemistry and even the physical aspect of life are dependent upon the electrical matrix. But medicine has looked almost exclusively at the physical and chemical. Although life expectancy has increased over 50 percent in the past century, Dr. Thomas McKeown (The Role of Medicine) has emphasized that this increase is the result of pasteurization of milk, chlorination of water, proper disposal of sewage and adequate protein and calories. David and Yin have taken the concept of homeopathy into the twenty-first century with the most elegant experiments to date. Their demonstration of microscopic clusters in water is groundbreaking and revolutionary! Their purification of water, with the atmospheric purity described, places homeopathy on a scientifically valid foundation that is equal at least to the discovery of atomic energy. I had the privilege of testing some of the earliest clustered water and found statistically significant improvement in basic immune function. Their more refined products are even more exciting. Obviously further research is needed, as it has been with radiation for the past century. But we now have an equally exciting New Frontier of Science, infinitely safer and potentially radically more effective in redefining Life and Healing. Kudos, David and Yin! The world awaits the next step in the development of electrically and chemically pure homeopathy. Hahnemann would be as excited as I am to see the results of your work. You have made a great step forward in understanding the Secret of Life. --C. Norman Shealy, MD, PhD, president, Holos Institutes of Health, Inc.; professor emeritus of energy medicine, Holos University Graduate Seminary; founding president, American Holistic Medical Association.

About the Author

David Gann and Shui-yin Lo PhD - Mr. Gann's scientific career spans over 30 years. He co-founded Aequiterus LLC with Dr. Lo and is a co-inventor and patent holder with Dr. Lo on the company's patent filings. Mr. Gann is responsible for designing and constructing the Company's state-of-the-art laboratory which features a Class 100 clean room and an Atomic Force Microscope (the most advanced microscope existing today), a highly advanced water filtration system and a production line. Mr. Gann's scientific, engineering, and management experience covers three decades as an integral member of numerous scientific teams. He has been successful in developing cutting-edge technologies: such as the first ultra-high-density magnetic recording medium for Zwan Magnetics (early 1980s), which included research into the manufacture of rare-earth magnets. During the late 1990s, in conjunction with UCLA, Mr. Gann began his research into the detection and labeling of nano-sized particles found in homeopathic solutions. His successes lead to isolating a 2-micron-sized ice particle (formed under specific electrical fields) that was stable at room temperatures and had potential biological and industrial applications. A similar particle, also isolated, became the center of a line of research by the Department of Immunology at UCLA as a stimulant of T-cells (human immune system), with more than 57 blind studies all demonstrating dramatic significant improvements in immune response. Mr. Gann has organized educational symposiums on crucial environmental issues, including global climate change and nuclear waste cleanup in conjunction with the U.S. Department of Energy and Los Alamos National Laboratories. Mr. Gann holds a Bachelor's Degree in Science UCM with post-graduate work in Physics. Shui-yin Lo PhD - Dr. Lo received his Bachelor of Science in Physics from the University of Illinois in 1962 with highest honors and his PhD in Physics from the University of Chicago in 1966 under the theory group lead by (2008) Physics Nobel recipient Yoichiro Nambu. (Dr. Nambu is considered as one of the leading figures in the development of modern particle physics.) Dr. Lo's academic career spans the globe as a visiting faculty member and lecturer at leading institutions throughout the world including: California Institute of Technology; Academy of Science, Beijing, China; Stanford Accelerated Center, California; Institute of Theoretical Physics, and State University of New York, Stony Brook, New York. Dr. Lo was Senior Lecturer (1977-1986), Tenured Lecturer (1975-1977), and Fixed Term Lecturer(1972-1975), at the University of Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Dr. Lo has published over 75 scientific papers in internationally recognized physics journals during his 40-year distinguished career as well as authored over 60 US and world patents in the field of atomic and subatomic particles. In conjunction with Caltech Pasadena and UCLA, Dr. Lo was the Senior Scientist that led a team of world renown colleagues, including the holder of the John Dawson Award for Excellence in Plasma Physics Research, UCLA Professor Alfred Wong, and world-renowned Field Medalist in Mathematics, Professor S.T. Yau, of Harvard University, in the proof of concept of a revolutionary high-energy beam with multiple communications and energy applications. This beam, the Baser, of which Dr. Lo is the inventor and patent holder, produces a high-energy beam of enlarged particle clusters thousands of times more powerful than the world's most powerful laser. The US Department of Energy, Office of Technology Development, as well as Los Alamos National Laboratory collaborated with this research. In 2005 the Nobel Prize in Physics was awarded to Roy Glauber at Harvard for the theoretical calculations of optical coherence which was the basis for Dr. Lo's invention of the Base
