From the Author

I wish to express a caution to my readers. Use godly discernment when studying the subject of fasting from Web sources and non-Christian writers. While there is a host of helpful medical and scientific data in these studies from which we can learn, we must be cautioned to use godly discernment in our quest to understand the subject. I add this note because there are new age, pagan, and false religions that also practice fasting.

Also, a pregnant woman should not engage in a long-term fast. As she detoxifies, the toxins could go into her baby. Young children who are still growing should not go on long, extended fasts.
